About me

After obtaining my scientific baccalaureate, my passion for mathematic and computing guided me into the world of all applications associated with them but also into the field of technology. Thus, after obtaining my degree in Applied Mathematics and Computer Science with honors at the Cheikh Anta Diop University of Dakar and being devoted to the applications of mathematics, I further joined the Applied Mathematics Degree of the university of Strasbourg in order to deepen my knowledge because I am aware of the crucial importance of this course in my academic and professional development.
